34th International Self-Directed Learning Symposium

February 4 - 8, 2020

Courtyard by Marriott at Cocoa Beach, Florida

This program provides an international forum for the discussion of important current developments in the study and application of self-directed learning. The program design emphasizes presentations of recent research findings, intensive individual participation, group exploration of problems, issues and concepts. Program structure includes large group sessions as well as small group interaction opportunities.

Publication Opportunity

After presentation at the Symposium, many participants choose to submit their Symposium papers to the International Journal of Self-Directed Learning for possible refereed publication.

A few comments from previous attendees:
- The Symposium was a wonderful opportunity to meet some of the major researchers in the self-directed learning... I think it should be on a 'must attend' list for any student, practitioner, or faculty member interested in this line of research...
- The value of the SDL Symposium for me is that we talk across boundaries and form a true learning community...

Local Attractions!

There is a lot to do in Cocoa Beach! The six-mile beach is near the Kennedy Space Center as well as Port Canaveral, a point of departure for Caribbean cruises. An hour’s drive west is Orlando, with Disney World, Sea World, and Universal Studios. Natural wonders such as the Everglades and richly populated lagoons abound—or add on a few days of golfing or fishing! Normal February days are sunny, with a high of 70 F.
